We had to bury another fallen brother today, as we left the cave and were greeted by an Ancient Wyrn. We spread out in all directions but found no Tuning Fork. I wish I could kill the Tinker, but if I did we will no doubt never find it - and I want to keep him alive and hope he comes to his senses soon as he is in more danger of dying than ourselves. We make camp here tonight, then leave this safe area and continue to the south to a dungeon I know of.
